

German A Level Student handbook

Why a language?

If you are looking for a future using communication skills, interpersonal skills, problem solving, team working, organisational skills and independence as well as excellent job prospects, then a modern language is for you. Languages are a personal skill and as such are an enriching experience with plenty of added value. We live in an increasingly global world where the ability to be able to speak another language is increasingly important.

Language study contributes to a broad general education and gives you invaluable practical and transferable skills for the future. In most careers nowadays language abilities are highly valued. You may choose to specialise in French/German at university or combine your language with other subjects such as Engineering, History, Media and journalism, Management and Business Studies, Teaching, Fashion Design, Travel & Hospitality Management, Accountancy, European Studies, or International or European Law.

What will I be doing during the course?

You will learn not just to speak or write about various subjects, but more importantly, to express an opinion about them.

The topics studied for the Year 12 course include the family and relationships, the digital world, youth culture, festivals and traditions, art & architecture & life in Berlin

The topics for the Year 13 course deal immigration, integration, racism, Germany & the EU, politics & youth & German reunification & its consequences.

You will be working on tasks set by the teacher but also on more independent activities depending on what your interests or needs are.

You will have the opportunity to complete Work Experience in Germany.

Is it like GCSE?

No! Not really. You will be in a small class and will focus on topics which are important in today's world and to people of your age. Family, relationships, cinema are examples. The main similarity is that opinions and justifications are still key. You won't however be learning the answers to set questions - instead you will need to be independent and able to manipulate the language to suit what you want to say. Your increasingly in-depth knowledge of grammar will enable you to do this.

There is a big jump from GCSE to A level but you will be well supported with the transition and your teacher will ensure that you have a good grounding before taking you on to more complex language.

Expectations

- We expect you to have a good GCSE grade preferably 6 or above.
- You will need to be prepared to work independently, finding information and reading and listening to German on your own.
- You will need to be prepared to have a go at speaking in class. Classes are small and everyone finds this difficult at first but practising speaking and giving opinions will be essential to your success.
- You will need to take an interest in the culture of Germany.
- You will need to keep your work organised and keep your own notes, including noting down & learning vocab regularly using a separate vocabulary book.

Year 12

The Year 12 course is made up of three units, which are assessed internally at the end of the Year. Paper 1 is the Listening, Reading and Writing Paper. This lasts 1 hour 45 minutes and represents 45% of the AS grade. Exams will be internal. The main difference from GCSE is that you will listen on a laptop and have individual control during the listening exam.

Paper 2 is the Writing exam. This lasts 1 hour 30 minutes and represents 25% of the AS grade. You will translate into German and write an essay about the literature we have studied.

Paper 3 is the Speaking exam. This lasts 12-14 minutes and represents 30% of the AS grade. You will talk about 2 sub-themes which will be the topics of two stimulus cards. You will have 15 minutes before the test to study the cards and make notes.

The Year 13 course

The Year 13 course is also made up of three units.

Paper 1 is the Listening, Reading and Writing Paper. This lasts 2 hours 30 minutes and represents 50% of the A2 grade. Exams will be external. Listening and responding in German, reading and responding to texts and translations into both German and English.

Paper 2 is the Writing exam. This last 2 hours and represents 20% of the grade. You will write an essay about the literature we have studied and a second essay about the film – each will have a choice of two titles.

Paper 3 is the Speaking exam. This last 21-23 minutes and represents 30% of the overall grade. You will talk about 1 sub-theme which will from a choice of two stimulus cards. You will have 5 minutes before the test to study the cards and make notes. The second part of this exam will be a presentation and discussion of your Independent Research Project.

Teaching

The A level course will be split between two teachers.

Year 12

In year 12 each teacher will concentrate on different topics and then one teacher will work on the literature (Der Besuch der alten Dame) while the other focusses on the Speaking element of your exam. You will cover the grammar learned at GCSE in more depth and more complex grammar will be added. It is essential that you have a sound grasp of grammar and are able to apply the rules in all contexts. You will be given HW tasks and expected to undertake practice in your own time.

Your speaking teacher will conduct your oral exam which will be marked internally.

You will be set a variety of HW tasks: listening, reading, writing and grammar exercises. You will also need to learn 30 words a week of your choice and will have a weekly vocab test and the results recorded. You will need an account on Quizlet to help with this.

You will take a fantastic German film home to watch and review in addition every cycle or every four weeks.

Independent learning is the key to success in a language. You need to read and listen to German on your own and find vocabulary. Just completing HW tasks will not be enough to get a really good grade. Your teacher will give you a sheet to help you record what you have done and will review it with you. Look at the resources list at the end for some ideas of what you could do. You can do extra verb practice, read the news or listen to German music – as long as it's in German, it doesn't have to be closely related to what you're doing in lessons unless you feel you need extra practice on that.

Year 13

Year 13 works in a similar way to year 12 although there is only a small amount of grammar to add at Year 13 so we have few explicit grammar lessons at this stage, although you may have lessons to revise what was covered in Year 12 if necessary. You will have one teacher who is responsible for the speaking who will prepare you for your oral exam.

The other teacher will focus on the film element of the course (Goodbye Lenin).

Organisation

A well organised file is the key to success at A Level. If you keep to these guidelines you will have no difficulty in keeping yourself prepared for lessons and keeping up with what is expected of you.

Please label your file dividers as follows:

1. General Information
Year 1
2. Familie im Wandel
3. Die digitale Welt
4. Jugendkultur: Mode, Fernsehen und Musik
5. Feste und Traditionen
6. Kunst und Architektur
7. Das Berliner Kulturleben damals und heute
8. Literatur – Der Besuch der alten Dame
9. Grammar
10. Speaking
Year 2
11. Einwanderung
12. Integration
13. Rassismus
14. Deutschland und die Europäische Union
15. Die Politik und die Jugend
16. Die Wiedervereinigung und ihre Folgen
17. Film – Goodbye, Lenin!
18. Grammar
19. Speaking
20. Useful websites
21. IRP work

- When you are given handouts, please ensure that they are filed in the appropriate section of your folder. If you miss a lesson for any reason, it is your responsibility to get a copy of anything handed out.
- It is essential that you bring your file to every lesson.

It is your responsibility to take good care of the text books you are given. They must be returned to school at the end of the course in the same state that they were given to you.

- ✓ You will have a speaking lesson once a cycle. This is a compulsory lesson and if you know that you are going to be away you must inform your teacher, just as you would inform your class teacher. All prep for that lesson is compulsory too.
- ✓ Use your private study time to develop your independent study skills (not just to complete homework!). Use online resources Quizlet for vocabulary learning, languagesonline.org for revision of tenses, slowgerman.com for listening and keep a list of additional websites that you are given or find.

Languages are a highly regarded and notoriously difficult subject but they offer you a wealth of cultural knowledge, transferable skills as well as increasing future opportunities, even if you don't choose to study them further. As a challenging subject, you need to keep the following tips in mind:

1. Be organised – lessons are fast and packed with content. You need to be able to pick up your learning from your organised notes outside the classroom.
2. Positive attitude – languages are hard but you'll find it's a bit like interval training; there are some steep learning curves but you'll see progress after them. Keeping positive will ensure you get to the end in one piece!
3. Independent study – you must regularly review your work (this booklet has some tips on how) and test your knowledge. There are so many different skills to learn a language that just doing past papers isn't enough. Not doing any work in between lessons will show and hinder your progress.
4. Reflect on your progress – analyse past papers/assessments plus the feedback from your teachers to identify areas to work on. Complete proactive tasks to help you make progress.

Mindset

Achieving the best grade is more than learning the specification. To truly excel in languages, you have to develop the key skills and the right mindset. There are often leaps between the key stages, particularly between GCSE and A level. There is also a gap between skills for most people: listening is always deemed one of the most difficult skills along with translation whereas a lot of people find reading harder. A language isn't one skill: it's all of them together and while some students seem to just "get it", they'll probably really struggle further down the line. Studies show that students who achieve most highly are those who work the hardest, have honed their learning skills and reflect on their progress regularly.

A growth mindset appreciates that you can improve your ability and performance. Time and research show that those students with a growth mindset regularly outperform their peers. Focus on yourself and your progress instead of how everyone else is doing.

Some useful resources

Key resources

Various resources are essential for all A Level students, and your teacher will be able to help you choose one or may suggest you order one through the school. These include:

- A good dictionary.
- A good AS/A2 level vocab book e.g. Wort für Wort or an organised Quizlet account if you prefer.
- A grammar reference & practice book e.g. Practice in German Grammar by Jones and Lawlor / Schaum's outlines German Grammar / Grammar Practice book that goes with Authentik.
- A verb table book.
- A book for practising your verbs e.g. 'Practice makes perfect German verb tenses' book .

Resources for Independent Study

EXTRA GRAMMAR / STRUCTURES PRACTICE

- Languageonline is useful for basic grammar recap www.languageonline.org.uk
- Verbs online is a site where you can test yourself at verb forms <http://www.verbs-online.com/>
- Reverso is a great & easy to use dictionary (use the 'dictionary' tab, not the 'translation' one). The site also has a 'conjugation' tab where you can look up different tenses easily. <http://dictionary.reverso.net/english-german/>
- Leo is a great online dictionary including a forum discussing tricky phrases www.leo.org
- Phrasen.com is an online 'idioms' dictionary where you can find some useful / interesting colloquial phrases <http://www.phrasen.com/>

TOPIC BASED / CURRENT AFFAIRS

It's vital as part of your studies to have an idea about current affairs in German speaking countries. The internet is the perfect way to do this and you can find more accessible things to visit than standard German news sites.

- The Goethe Institut has a site just for A level students with great articles and info as well as a forum where you can contact other students of German and grammar info, quizzes etc. <http://www.goethe.de/Ins/gb/lon/prj/asa/enindex.htm>

- Gut has a Year 12 / Year 13 sections for topic-based practice. The site is free after 4pm. <http://gut.languageskills.co.uk/index.html>
- Germanabout is a weekly free online magazine that all students should subscribe to. It contains language and cultural information and tips. The site also has a wealth of information about all things German www.Germanabout.com
- Tagesschau and Spiegel and other German news websites are quite challenging as they are designed for native speakers, but worth a look every now & again to see how well you cope <http://www.tagesschau.de/> and <http://www.spiegel.de/>
- Deutsch Aktuell from the German news site Deutsche Welle is an accessible area for non-native speakers. Select the first section 'Top Thema' for a current affairs article complete with key vocab with German explanation, and the 2nd section 'langsam gesprochene Nachrichten' is the news at a slow speed that non-native-speakers will be able to understand more easily. <http://www.dw.de/deutsch-lernen/deutsch-aktuell/s-2146>
- Neuneinhalb is a German news website with videos & articles on current issues which is designed for older children (so things are explained a little more simply than on an adult news website). Easy to use & clearly laid out. <http://www.wdr.de/tv/neuneinhalb/index.php5>
- Sowieso is an online newspaper for kids in German <http://www.sowieso.de>
- www.slowgerman.com is good for practising listening.

OTHER

- You will be expected to attend individual speaking lessons with other adults – we will timetable these for you and they will be compulsory.
- TV Some TV providers allow you to access foreign language TV programmes – see if yours does & start watching German TV e.g. soaps (use google to find out what's popular). You may also be able to find some German tv on Netflix.
- Film Use google to research famous German films such as Sophie Scholl and download or buy them. We have some in the department which we can lend you as long as you sign them out & bring them back – if you notice we have some glaring gaps in our collection let us know & we may be able to buy the DVD which you can then borrow.
- Music – Use the internet to research German bands & download some you like. Google the texts and listen to them, trying to work out the meanings.
- Parallel texts – You can buy books that have German on one side & English on the other to give you a gentle introduction to reading novels in another language.
- Books – There are a selection of books in the department at school that you can borrow from us as long as you sign them out & bring them back – there are also some in the school library & in town libraries about Germany & German history.
