

TRANSITION WORK

SIXTH FORM PREPARATORY WORK: STUDY SKILLS

As part of your preparation for A level study you will need to complete all these tasks in addition to the Transition work set for each subject. If you have any queries, please email
Mrs Nurton, Director of Sixth Form hnurton@guildfordcounty.co.uk

Watch the YouTube video on how to take notes using the Cornell Notes method. This method helps you to organise your notes during lessons and during your reading tasks.

It helps you become an active listener in lessons and keep a record of your extra reading tasks.

Cornell Note Taking Method
YouTube

Read this study skills booklet. It covers a range of necessary skills for A Level studies and also to prepare for those who intend to go onto university.

It is important to practice these skills that will improve your independence and resilience.

Study Skills Booklet
Hodder Education

Complete this course on Improving Your Study Techniques.

This course from the University of Groningen will Improve your study skills and get better results by learning to use the 'three-step study model'. (Do the free version of the course – don't pay for extras)

Improving Your Study Techniques
FutureLearn Groningen University

Get organised You will need a folder for each subject, to keep at home (with dividers) as well as a 'daily folder'. You will be expected to have your daily folder with you in school, with approximately the last two weeks' worth of work for every subject in. Obviously electronic work and work in Art sketchbooks etc. will not be in this daily folder.